

Niels Boye

Niels Boye, MD (52 years), MD is educated and has worked as a specialist in internal medicine and endocrinology at Danish hospitals. He is current associate professor in health informatics at Aalborg University and former associate professor in clinical informatics at Aarhus University (Denmark). He is also now responsible for Ambient Assisted Living research and development activities at the Centre for Information and Communication Technologies, Danish Technological Institute. Niels Boye has participated as partner, evaluator, or reviewer in several EU Framework Programs.